

As a resident of NJ, I ask that the FCC not seek to overturn NJ's Do Not Call Registry law and guidelines. I recently moved (3 months ago) and since then have been continuously harrassed by local NJ companies selling home security systems, despite the fact that I tell them each time I am a renter, not a home owner, and request to be taken off their calling lists. (One company in particular has been so obnoxious about repeated calls -- always between 6 and 9 pm -- that I have filed complaints via both the federal and NJ Do Not Call web sites). Clearly, telemarketers and the businesses that hire them are looking for any excuse to ignore the laws we DO have simply so they can try and make a sale -- please don't make it easier for them to harrass the taxpayers. Remember that our government's FIRST responsibility is to protect the rights of INDIVIDUAL citizens, not corporate citizens.
